

YALE CRUSHED BY CRIMSON ELEVEN

Buckhannon High School Team Wins State Championship from Wheeling

MAHAN'S PLAYING FEATURES CONTEST

Harvard's Captain Plays the Greatest Game of Career against Yale Team.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 20.—Another perfect Harvard football machine rolled over Yale's crude eleven here this afternoon, defeating the Blue 41 to 0, in a game in which the Crimson team surpassed all previous scoring records against the Elis. Before the powerful attack and defense of Captain Mahan's gridiron warriors, the bulldog was helpless and even the fickle goddess of fortune, that rode the Blue banner to victory against Princeton at New Haven a week ago, fled in fright to the shelter of the Crimson. Before this combination the Elis' forces crumbled until the game ceased to be a contest and became a procession of Harvard advances and touchdowns, against which Yale fought in desperation, but futile fashion.

Fighting Spirit Evident. Although the fighting spirit which Tom Shevlin imparted to the Yale eleven just previous to the battle with the Tiger was still in evidence, it availed the Blue nothing against Harvard's Haughton instructed team. The savage rushes and tackles of the bulldog occasionally checked the Cambridge advance for a moment, but after the initial period of the game the result was never in doubt and interest among the Harvard clans was centered in the size of the score that the home university eleven would run up.

Their hopes of a record Crimson tally against the Blue were not disappointed, for before Captain Mahan and his team mates completed their final day's work of the 1915 football season they recorded the largest total ever scored by a Harvard eleven against Yale and the largest, but one, ever made in this eastern football classic, which dates back to 1875. More than twenty years ago, in 1884, to be accurate, Yale defeated Harvard 48 to 0, and had today's game continued for a few minutes longer, these figures would have, in all probability been equalled or surpassed.

New Records Made. As it was, the contest established several new records for the series, for during the triumph of Captain Eddie Mahan's team, Harvard scored her first touchdown against Yale in the stadium since that structure was erected twenty years ago. In addition, Captain Mahan closed his football career with a wonderful display of gridiron ability, during which he made four touchdowns and five goals from touchdowns, for a total of twenty-nine points, which is said to be an individual record for this series.

Assisted by a splendid team, Mahan romped around and through the Eli eleven for gain after gain, apparently not a bit hampered by the slippery and uncertain footing of the stadium turf. Mahan stood out above the other players of the Crimson machine, by Watson, Harts, Boles and Soucy all shown in the perfect combination of Haughton's gridiron steam roller. Across the line Scovill, Guernsey, Black, Way, Allen and Carlin. Wilcox were the heroes of a desperate but unavailing stand against the charges of Harvard.

Weather Conditions Bad. Although the weather conditions improved strictly according to forecast after the heavy storm of Friday, the afternoon was far from ideal for football, either from the standpoint of player or spectator. A chilling gale blew out of the west, carrying the puffed ball at varying speeds and baffling slants, which made perfect handling of it almost impossible.

The gridiron was wet and slippery from the heavy rain of yesterday and at times the players lost their footing.

Hardly had the thousands settled themselves for the struggle when the opening break of the game gave the Harvard supporters their first opportunity to cheer. Elis, taking a Harvard punt near midfield rapidly worked the ball into Crimson territory until the Blue legions were frantically calling for a touchdown. Here a fumble gave Coach Haughton's pupils a chance to show how closely they had been taught to follow the ball. Three Crimson players fell on the pigskin and on the first line up Mahan sent the ball twirling down field with a powerful kick to which the wind added impetus. Bingham fumbled the catch and Harte, after three attempts scooped up the ball and ran thirty-three yards for a touchdown, from which Mahan missed the goal.

Taking the ball on a Yale punt the Cambridge team started a march up the field which did not end until Mahan had crossed the line. During this attack, Harvard gave an inkling of the clever strategy by which she was to defeat Yale so decisively. Delayed passes, huddled ball tactics and other deceptive methods adopted by Quarterback Watson completely bewildered the Elis.

Harvard Again Scores. In the second period Harvard added another fourteen points on two touchdowns and resultant goals. With the ball in her possession on Yale's 45-yard line, the Mahan brigade moved steadily toward the goal until within thirteen yards of the line. Here the Blue forwards suspected a forward pass, but instead Mahan slipped through the widespread defense for a scoring dash.

The fourth score was gained along similar lines, although far more spectacularly. King was given the sphere and skirting Yale's left end ran
